Notes on system suspend/system hibernation mode

- The system should not be allowed to change to system suspend/hibernation mode during playback, recording, or connection of the Net MD Walkman. The computer setting for the activation of system suspend or hibernation mode should be disabled.
- If the computer changes to system suspend/hibernation mode, it may not recognize the Net MD Walkman after it wakes up. If this happens, disconnect the USB cable, and then reconnect it.
- If the computer changes to system suspend/hibernation mode during the recording of a CD, importing of a file, or checking in or checking out of an audio file, audio data may be lost or the computer may not wake up properly.
- If you change the media while the computer is in system suspend/hibernation mode, data may be lost after the computer wakes up.

If the Net MD Walkman is not recognized by your computer

If your computer does not recognize your Net MD Walkman even when the Net MD Walkman is connected and a disc is inserted, the Net MD driver may not be correctly installed.

Go to the [USB Controller] in Windows Device Manager window to verify that your Net MD Walkman is correctly recognized.
A [!] mark in the Device Manager window indicates that your Net MD Walkman is not correctly recognized. Reinstall the Net MD driver.

1 Click [Start], point to [Settings], and then click [Control Panel].*

   * If you are using Windows XP, click [Start], and then [Control Panel].

2 Double click [System] in the control panel.*

   * If you are using Windows XP, double click [System] if the control panel is in the "classic" format, or click [Performance and Maintenance] and then [System] if the control panel is in the "category" format.

3 Click the [System Profiles] tab, and then click [Device Manager].

   The Device Manager window appears.

   ଫHint

   Depending on your system, the [System Profiles] tab may not exist. In this case, click the [Device Manager] tab to display the Device Manager window.

4 Double click [Other Devices], select [Undefined Device] (with the [!] mark) and delete it.

5 Reinstall the Net MD driver.

   Refer to "Installation" in "Installing Net MD Simple Burner", and click [Install Net MD Driver only] in step 3.
